

The diagram consists of a grid with 10 columns and 10 rows. A horizontal line, labeled (A), is drawn across the top of the grid, specifically at the 9th row from the bottom. Below this line, a curved line starts at the left edge of the grid, dips down to its lowest point at the 5th column, and then rises back up towards the right edge. The region between the horizontal line (A) and the curved line is filled with solid black. The label (A) is positioned above the horizontal line, centered under the 7th column.
